

Pan, Jiaen, Lingnan University, Hong Kong

The Limitation and Space of Rural Reconstruction Movement in Modern China

This article will focus on contemporary rural reconstruction movement in modern China. The movement, which can be regarded as the self-protect movement of the modern China, concerns rural issues and explores alternative ways of rural development. Rural reconstruction movement has different kinds of resistance, reflection, experiences, and imaginations. By examining it, we can discover China's modernity with increasing complexity, discuss the potential space and limit of the alternative, and enrich our understanding of the complex cultural dynamics of China's modernity.