

Chair and Organizer: Smith, Clarissa, University of Sunderland, United Kingdom

Sexual Subjectivities

This session explores issues of sexual subjectivity engaging with the ways in which female sexual identities are matters for concern, critique, marketing and promotion as well as intensely personal presentations of the self. The four papers will take different aspects of sexual presentation found in popular culture, participatory media and pornography to explore the socio-political understandings of the meanings of sexual subjectivities.